KEA Members Urged To Continue To Fight For Local Bargaining Pacts

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Kentucky Education Association convention opened on a militant note as members were urged to continue the fight for voluntary bargaining pacts with local school boards.

The plea was made by KEA executive secretary Bob Summers, who told delegates Friday that "if we are successful in passing a (mandatory statewide) bargaining law, we must have every local association in this state seeking to bargain with its local school board."

Summers noted that nine KEA local associations have successfully negotiated contracts, covering approximately 10,200 teachers, with their boards of education.

Summers said 17 locals have agreements establishing processes for bargaining, and 38 others are seeking school board recognition to bargain for their members.

The KEA, representing some 28,000 teachers, has been trying unsuccessfully for the past decade to get a state law requiring school boards to bargain with teachers on salaries, working conditions and other areas.

An attempt to win a collective bargaining law was rejected by the 1978 Legislature.

Summers and Wayne Harvey, the outgoing president, also called upon members to intensify political activities to elect candidates for public office who are sympathetic to collective bargaining.

Both men said the KEA, acting through its Kentucky Educators Public Affairs Council, has been highly successful in its political activities. Seventy-seven percent of the KEA endorsed legislative candidates in last May's primary were victorious, and 81 percent of those endorsed won General Assembly seats last November, Summers said.

Harvey said, however, that in the future the KEA must take a closer look at the legislative candidates it endorses.

"It gets a bit discouraging when we elect 90 percent of the candidates who say they support bargaining for teachers and then find that only 45 percent of them vote for it in the legislature," he said.

Harvey said failure to get the teacher-bargaining bill passed this year was the KEA's biggest disappointment.

"But we will be back in (the) 1980 (legislative session), stronger than ever," Summers said.

He said the session was the best ever in terms of monetary gains for teachers and education in general.

Pay increases for teachers, which will average $2,945 by 1980, will move Kentucky to 24th nationally in this category, with an overall average of $1,615, Summers said.

The KEA selected Galen Martin and C. G. Merritt as joint recipients of its annual award for civil and human rights in education.

Martin is the first and only executive director of the Kentucky Commission on Human Rights, established by the General Assembly in 1960.

Merritt, who will be 71 on May 27, retired as assistant principal of Madison High School in the Richmond school system in June 1977.

Coal Tax Comes Up Short But Sales Tax Should Compensate

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky probably will come up about $10 million short of estimated coal severance tax revenues this fiscal year because of the prolonged strike and cold winter, state revenue officials are predicting.

However, state Revenue Commissioner Maurice Carpenter said he hopes increased sales tax revenues will compensate for the loss of coal taxes.

Revenue officials have estimated that the state's General Fund — which finances most state government operations — will reach $1.4 billion by June 30, the end of the fiscal year.

In comparison, a loss of $10 million seems fairly minor — only about two-thirds of one percent of the total budget.

"We're fortunate to have such a large general fund," said Paul Tanner, the department's research director, "because there are compensating areas."

Tanner said the state could recoup a part of the lost severance tax revenue in the 60 days remaining before the end of the fiscal year, but that it's unlikely the state will make up the bulk of the loss.

The increased price of coal in the wake of the strike will help somewhat, he said, since the severance tax is based on the price of coal.

The department originally estimated that the severance tax would bring in $131.2 million this year. A total of $112.6 was collected during the last fiscal year, Tanner said.

"The strike was longer than we anticipated," he said. But he said it came at a good time, since cold and snowy weather would have hampered coal production and transportation anyway.

Tanner said the sales tax is producing more than was estimated, primarily because of inflation.

"Inflation is going to help us out," he said. "It's more than we bargained it would be."

Tanner said revenue analysts predicted an inflation rate of about 6 per cent, but that it is running closer to 7 percent.

"That will make up part of the (severance tax loss)," he said.

Personal income tax returns are coming in more slowly than anticipated, leaving revenue officials "on the edge of our chairs," Tanner said.

Generally, returns are filed early by taxpayers who expect refunds, and late returns by those who owe some tax, he said, and revenue officials are hoping that holds true this year.

Corporate income tax revenues look good because corporation profits are up, he said.

The only other unexpected decline in taxes has come in cigarette tax collections. Tanner said the state could lose about $750,000 in cigarette tax revenues this year, primarily as a result of the crackdown on cigarette bootlegging by other states. Last year the state got a little over $22 million from the tax.

Tanner said cigarette consumption apparently has also declined.

Cancer Crusade Plans Announced

The Crusade Committee for the Calloway County Unit of the American Cancer Society met at the Holiday Inn on Wednesday to finalize plans for the annual April Crusade.

Unit president, Dr. Alice Koencke, announced Friday, April 15, 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. as the date for volunteer workers to pick up their packets at the Holiday Inn.

Some 200 workers will attempt to give every household and business in the city and surrounding county an opportunity to contribute to a comprehensive program of research, education, and service to cancer patients, Dr. Koencke said.

At the close of the crusade, workers are asked to return their kits and contributions to Mrs. Mary Frances Bell, Bank of Murray.

Dr. Koencke urges public spirited workers to volunteer for work in their own areas. Any citizens, by mistake not solicited, are asked to mail contributions to Mrs. Bell.

Attending the planning session were Gene Nipp, area representative; Dr. Alice Koencke, unit co-president; Mrs. Inez Claxton, Delta Chairman; Mrs. Leone Travis, Mrs. Marelle Clark, Mrs. Laurene Andrus, Mrs. Emma Warren, Miss Clara Eagle, Miss Lorene Swann, and Miss Hazel Tarry.

Mrs. Lois Sparks, co-chairman was unable to attend, but contributed her advance planning.

Mrs. Trevathan To Be Conference Participant

Margaret Trevathan, librarian at the Calloway County Public Library, will be serving as a conference participant in the Kentucky Governor's Conference on Oral History to be held at Eastern Kentucky University on April 21-22.

Mrs. Trevathan and Dr. Lynwood Montell from Western Kentucky University will serve as moderators on a panel discussing "Considerations of Problems and Priorities in Kentucky Oral History Research." The purposes of each seminar included in the conference will be to exchange information about the extent and scope of oral history projects in the region, to consider possibilities for better coordinating regional oral history research interests, and to discuss cooperation between those working on oral history projects within the region.

The Kentucky Oral History Commission was established by the Kentucky General Assembly of 1976 upon recommendation of Gov. Julian M. Carroll and was funded through the governor's contingency fund for the fiscal years 1976-77 and 1977-78. Gov. Carroll included funding for the commission's further activities in his recently adopted budget for the 1978-80 biennium. Under his leadership, Kentucky became the first state in the United States with a state-funded Oral History Commission, a spokesman said.

The Calloway County Public Library has actively engaged in an Oral History project since 1972. The Calloway Friends of the Library Organization participate in the interviewing and collecting of these tapes for library research. Articles on the local library project have been published in "McCall's" and "Family Circle" magazines.

New County Animal Shelter Near Completion Say Officials

County officials have announced that due to the recent favorable weather, progress on the new Calloway County Animal Shelter has put it near completion.

Located on the southeast corner of the county garage lot on Sycamore Street, extended, this new facility will be a proud possession of all Calloway Countians, a spokesman said.

All counties in Kentucky are required to provide a place to retain stray dogs. However, this new shelter will be equipped to care for cats as well as have additional centers for records and treatment of animals.

The front portion of the building has been designated as an office which will be open during regular hours to be announced shortly. Also found in this office will be records of any animals brought into the shelter whether retrieved by the owner, adopted, or destroyed for health reasons.

Another needed portion of the animal shelter will be the laboratory or treatment room. In this section, officials will be able to attend to the animals suffering from common skin ailments, fleas and ticks. Any animals suspected of carrying disease, such as rabies, will be placed nearby in the isolation or observation center.

What is not very pleasant, but is sometimes necessary, is the euthanasia chamber. In this space, animals can be quietly and painlessly destroyed if needed.

Area has been set aside in the building for a furnace if weather ever becomes too harsh. At this time, no heating has been installed other than in the office and treatment sections.

Covered and insulated quarters have been prepared for adult dogs. The dogs will also be able to leave their protected space and have ample room to run in a caged area. Puppies will be kept separately from the larger dogs, but likewise have running space outdoors. Cats have also been provided segregated spaces.

Dr. Keith Heim, president of the Calloway County Humane Society, has said the new animal shelter "is something the county can be proud of as well as being a big step toward humane treatment and control of animals. He also reported that Judge Robert O. Miller and the entire fiscal court has been open to suggestions from the Humane Society and has done everything possible to make the animal shelter one that is first-rate and adequate for the county. He compared this new facility with the old located on the Poor Farm Road, and said there is no comparison, this shelter is four, five, maybe six times greater.

Ed Miller, Calloway County Garage superintendent, has supervised construction. He also supervised construction on the county garage. Miller says good materials were used to ensure endurance of the building and the workmanship is the best. Miller added that the building will be ready for occupancy May 1.

Needline Names Four Directors

Four new directors for the board of the Need Line were installed at the fourth annual meeting of the Need Line Board of Directors held at the Colonial House, Smorgasbord on Thursday evening, April 13.

The new board members are Theron Riley, retired civil service, formerly of the Kirksey community; Lennis Hale, layman of the Goshen United Methodist Church; Betty Boston, on staff of First of Michigan, Inc.; and Sandra Gallimore of Hazel, with the Computer Center at Murray State University. They, except for Mrs. Gallimore, along with Rev. Dr. David C. Roos and Eupile Ward will serve for the 1978-1982 term. Mrs. Gallimore will fill the unexpired term of Tommy Martin for the 1976-1980

Eupile Ward, executive director of the Need Line, a community information screening and referral service that focus its efforts towards meeting human needs and problems, reported on the many calls and services during the past year. A grand total of 333 case records with 1612 contacts made were reported by Mrs. Ward.

Services recorded with proper referrals to the various local agencies made by the director, including job related, food, fuel, housing, furniture, medical or physical problems, just to talk, legal aid, drugs and alcohol, emotional and psychiatric, spiritual or family relations, child abuse, unwed mothers, general information, special requests for sitter service, emergency transportation, transients, aid to blind person, venereal disease, clothing and public relations.

Dr. Mark Singer, assistant professor of the Division of Social Work, Murray State University, spoke concerning the recent evaluation survey made by Dr. Singer, Mrs. Ward, and students at Murray State University of Need Line in Murray. This survey was conducted with no names released in anyway; thereby continuing with the "confidentiality" policy of the Need Line.

The Rev. Robert Brockhoff, retiring chairman of the board, presided. New officers are the Rev. Dr. Roos, chairman; Marvin Harris, vice-chairman;

NEED LINE — Installed as new members of the board of directors of the Need Line, a community information screening referral service that focus its efforts toward meeting human needs and problems, were, left to right, Theron Riley, Lennis Hale, Betty Boston, and Sandra Gallimore. The installation took place at the fourth annual meeting held Thursday evening at the Colonial House Smorgasbord.

Jo Burkeen, secretary; the Rev. Brockhoff, treasurer.

Plans for the fund raising effort of the Need Line including the new "friends of the Need Line" were discussed by the Rev. Brockhoff, fund chairman, who will be assisted by Frances Shea, member of the Board of Directors.

Further detail will be announced later.

Mrs. Nell Eaton, secretary for the past two years, was recognized for her services, along with the retiring board members, Harold Beaman, Bailey Gore, and Irma La Follette. Twenty-four persons were present for the dinner.

No Inflation Czar

WASHINGTON — President Carter personally threw cold water on naming an anti-inflation "czar" to ride herd on his cabinet with the power and responsibility to carry out long-awaited proposals to dampen rampant inflation.

The idea surfaced out of White House staff discussions on how the Carter administration could dramatize its fight against inflation — which has become the President's No. 1 political problem. As presented to Mr. Carter, the staff proposal suggested that the anti-inflation war needed "a forceful person, with high standing in the country and good relations with both labor and business."

But objections were sounded by two high administration officials: Charles Schultze, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, and Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal. They argued that a "czar" to tell them how to run their own anti-inflation policy would create bureaucratic confusion (besides threatening their power).

They may have a point. "Czars" don't always work out all that well. But in persuading Mr. Carter to veto the proposal, Schultze and Blumenthal may have cost the President an invaluable political asset: the chance to convince angry consumers harassed by rising prices that he means business. For example, an outside "czar" would have far more freedom to attack the government's high-rise pay and retirement policies than cabinet members.

That advantage of the "czar" proposal was appreciated in the Commerce Department which in the end was the only major agency not to oppose the idea. But against the Schultze-Blumenthal combination, Commerce Secretary Juanita Kreps did not stand a chance.

A footnote: the suggestion for a czar specifically mentioned Harvard Business School Prof. John T. Dunlop, an esteemed labor-management expert and former Secretary of Labor, as the "prototype." But Dunlop himself would not have been chosen; he is regarded by the Carter men as too abrasive and impolitic.

GOP Treads Softly

The Senate Republican Policy Committee's hard-hitting critique of President Carter's foreign and military policy, now receiving finishing touches, will tread softly on the country's most politically sensitive issue: Arab-Israeli peace.

With President Carter a target of criticism from many Jewish Americans, it would be only natural if the Republicans sought political capital out of the President's discomfiture. One easy way: woo Jewish votes by accusing Mr. Carter of tilting toward the Arabs at the expense of Israel.

But barring last-minute changes, that course will not be taken by the policy committee (headed by Sen. John Tower, who is seeking reelection in Texas).

The reason: among many non-Jewish American voters, feeling is running high against Prime Minister Begin for insisting on Israel's right to retain Jewish settlements and refusing to withdraw from the West Bank; meanwhile, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat remains high in American popular acclaim. The Republicans sense the extreme delicacy of this unfolding political equation and fear an all-out endorsement of Israel's position could boomerang.

Reagan Running? Friends of Ronald Reagan report he is more enthusiastic than ever about a last-hurrah run for President in 1980 — so far confounding the widely-held theory that he would back away as the presidential year approached.

Reagan, 67, has informed close associates that if he runs, he will announce it soon after the 1978 mid-term election. As President Carter's popularity declines, Reagan's zest for making the race is obvious.

This is not good news for some Reagan operatives who talked him into making the 1976 race. This time they are dubious, not because Reagan is too old to win but because he might become too old to serve effectively. But nobody has told Reagan yet, and it is doubtful that anybody will.

A footnote: If Reagan runs, several conservative hopefuls are expected to bail out — including Sen. Robert Dole, Sen. Jesse Helms and Rep. Philip Crane. That would leave Reagan to face George Bush, Sen. Howard Baker and possibly Gov. James Thompson of Illinois. But Gerald Ford might come in if it looks as though Reagan is wrapping up the nomination.

Atkins Begins Audit Of State Plane Use

By SY RAMSEY
Associated Press Writer

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Another confrontation between State Auditor George Atkins and Gov. Julian Carroll looms, this time over the use and cost of state planes.

Atkins said Friday his office has started an audit of the use of state aircraft and operation of the 13-craft Kentucky air fleet.

He made the announcement at a news conference in the wake of stories about the administration's $845,000 purchase of a new plane and the report that Carroll did not disclose that he was vacationing in the Bahamas as well as Miami area in the past two weeks.

Atkins is a Democratic factional opponent of Carroll and a prospective candidate for governor in 1979.

He charged that Carroll's vacation could cost the taxpayers about $50,000 and questioned whether state planes should be used for personal trips of that kind.

"They should be avoided whenever possible," Atkins said, while acknowledging he does not know if such usage violates the law.

Speaking of the governor, Atkins said that "here is a fellow who made such an ad about catching the little fellow (state workers) using a state car without authorization, using road-blocks," and contrasted this with what he termed a plush, costly vacation charged to taxpayers.

The auditor said that if elected governor, he would not use state planes on vacations. He said he has flown twice during his tenure on state craft and refunded the portion chargeable to personal use.

The administration said the latest plane, a 10-seat Merlin, was bought to "fill the gap" in its 13-craft fleet.

"We learned the state's 16-passenger Fairchild for the past two weeks has been used as a private shuttle service between Frankfort, Miami and the Bahamas Islands at the taxpayers' expense," the auditor said.

He criticized the administration's management policies and fiscal decisions, which he said have led to the state spending $136 million more than it took in since Carroll has been in power. Atkins said he bases this estimate on the fact that Carroll began with a $146 million surplus several years ago and will wind up, according to administration projections, with only a $10 million surplus at the end of the next biennium.

The auditor indicated his inquiry will cover why additional craft have been purchased, whether another jet plane was needed, why the 1978 Legislature was not consulted although the latest purchase was contemplated during the session and why capital construction funds were used to buy planes and helicopters.

"We will ask who uses our state planes and for what purpose," he said.

The auditor quoted the governor as having said about a year ago that the law allows constitutional officers free and full use of state planes, but said he could not verify that — nor could he say whether any laws are being violated.

He said he expected "bureaucratic harassment" in the form of delays during his inquiry, but indicated he is confident he eventually can obtain the necessary records.

"We will try to determine any persons missing (from the plane records)," Atkins said, adding in jest: "We would not want them in the missing persons file of the Bermuda Triangle."

If the administration's plane practices continue, he quipped, the next purchase may be of a trans-Atlantic jet to visit the state's industrial promotion office in Brussels or a twin-engine jet helicopter for executive use.

The governor's office previously has defended Carroll's use of state planes. The governor was due back Saturday from his Florida vacation.

Dollar And Stock Market Look Better

By MICHAEL W. MILLICAN
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Inflation and President Carter's plan to deal with it worried business, government, organized labor and banking leaders this past week. But despite their skepticism, stock prices rose and the dollar was stronger.

The president on Tuesday asked for voluntary restraint in holding down wages and prices. He proposed a limit of 5.5 percent on federal white-collar salaries and called on other workers to follow that example and accept smaller pay increases than they have gotten in the past two years.

Union leaders reacted by saying their members, aware that Carter endorsed a pay increase of nearly 40 percent over three years to end the coal strike, expected raises for themselves that would counter the higher cost of living.

Many business leaders said they would cooperate with the wage restraints and would try to hold down their prices. But many added that the real culprit was not wages, it was overspending by the federal government, something the president did not deal with in his speech.

But while the corporate leaders, union officials and economists said the anti-inflation effort was not likely to work without trimming the federal deficit from the $60 billion level proposed by the president, investors in U.S. stocks and at foreign exchange centers around the world seemed to be more optimistic.

Stock prices rose Thursday and surged Friday with record trading volume. The Dow Jones average of 30 blue chips jumped more than 10 points in the first 30 minutes of trading Friday.

A broad, the dollar, the whipping boy of international currency trading for more than a year, was stronger against almost all major currencies. Currency dealers in Tokyo and the European trading centers were at a loss to explain why, saying they didn't think Carter's speech helped the dollar.

The week also brought indications that the economy has shrugged off last winter's slump and is expanding. The output of industry in March increased at the fastest pace in a year, the government reported. Industrial production rose 1.4 percent. In January it had fallen 0.8 percent and in February output edged up only 0.3 percent.

That means factories plants are hiring more workers and producing more goods to meet increased demands.

Many major corporations announced sharply higher profits for the first three months of the year, a reflection of the spurt in business activity. Westinghouse increased its first-quarter earnings 16 percent over the same period last year. Burroughs Corp., the computer company, saw earnings rise 18 percent. Allied Chemical Corp. doubled its first-quarter profits. Raytheon Corp. and NCR Corp. each said their went up 42 percent.

Echoes From The Past

By Judy Maupin

(A Column of historical and genealogical anecdotes, stories and family notes.)

The Infidel Of Golden Pond

There is a story told some years ago, and retold by Ed Huddlestone, some 20 years ago, about a family who moved to the little town of Golden Pond, that now disappeared town between the rivers. The head of the family was a man who professed atheism, but who evidently practiced the Golden Rule of christianity. This family built a little house right in Golden Pond which could still be seen up until a few years ago, and they lived happily enough there, becoming respected members of the community.

This man, who stoutly defended his beliefs, even sparking debates among his more conventional neighbors, was a merchant. He and his wife were known to always be ready with a helping hand. At the entrance to his house, which was surrounded by an iron fence, was a marble slab, used as a stepping stone. The inscription on this stone read, "Limit your family. In the brief daytime of life, love. In the long dark night of death, oblivion." Later, when the family moved, the next owners took this slab and turned it so that the inscription was buried in the earth.

The family was increased by a son, whom the couple named Darwin. The boy was given the best education possible at that time; he was sent into Cadiz to board and go to the school there. But before he could finish school, he contracted tuberculosis and had to be sent to Dawson Springs, to the sanatorium. The diagnosis was not good; the doctors told the bereaved parents that the boy would not live long, and for them to take him home to finish his life.

Although the parents found this very difficult to accept, the boy reminded them of their beliefs and scolded them for their tears. But the father was now obsessed with the idea of the devil. The yard of their house had been known for its lovely climbing rosebushes. However, one morning the inhabitants of Golden Pond were amazed to find that the rosebushes had been cut to the ground during the night.

Someone asked the father the meaning of his action, and the man explained, "The devil hid in those bushes and peeped out at me. Now he'll have nowhere to hide." It's said that the man's wife scolded him severely for giving in to such superstition, adding that she hoped her beliefs proved to be stronger than her husband's.

Not long afterwards, the boy died and the family moved from Golden Pond, to be seen no more. And now that the house is gone, nothing remains of the "Infidel of Golden Pond," not even the marble slab.

Spring and Summer

Butch Groer Outdoor Editor

Sportsman's Journal

Now that the Spring and Summer weather is upon us, I've noticed a greater number of boats heading towards the lakes. Crappie and bass fishermen alike have enjoyed an increasing success lately. Jerry McConnel out at Uncle Jeff's reports crappie fishermen catching most of their fish deep in Barkley Lake and shallow out of Kentucky Lake. He also reports bass fishermen doing better by fishing from noon till late afternoon than those who do early morning fishing.

The Murray Bass Club has been listed on the Bass Research Foundation's honor roll recently for donating $100 to that foundation. According to Lyle Underwood, president of the Murray Bass Club, the club has donated to the Bass Research Foundation (BRF) for three consecutive years. The BRF is a national, non-profit organization devoted to the protecting, preserving and improving the future of bass fishing.

Cleveland Amory is making a ruckus over in Pennsylvania. Seems the sportsmen of the state have banned the dairy products produced by a firm running a 'vanishing species' series on a panel of their milk cartons. Amory's involvement is not too clear at this point. My own ideas on the matter are that his interests are not in the sportsmen's best interests. The vanishing species series reminds me of an incident a couple of years ago when a major cereal company ran an endangered species plate or glass offer. I was shocked to see a mule deer listed as an endangered species! It was blatantly misinforming the public about what was and what was not the truth. I sent the cereal box off to the Fred Bear Sports Club. They in turn went to work on the matter and shortly thereafter the offer was pulled from the market. The Pennsylvania incident and the cereal box incident is an example of how sportsmen can become directly involved in an issue and do his sport a lot of good. We need to be watch dogs and alarm others when help is needed.

Did you know Jacques Cousteau is against 'sport fishermen'? It is true. The master of the undersea world publicly voiced his opinion against sport fishing during an interview on an outdoor TV program in Michigan. He believes sport fishing pressures in metropolitan areas are so great it upsets the stream and river ecology. Is this where the 'put and take' fisheries programs are needed? Does old Jacques have water in his ears or is he right in his feelings? What are your comments on the matter?

Kentucky's State Fish Records

By John Wilson

Although the fishing season has just begun, Kentucky already has a new state record — and it's a whopper! Porter Hash, Edmonton, was trolling a deep running lure in Dale Hollow Lake March 13 when he hooked and landed a muskellunge that tipped the scales at an even 43 pounds, one pound more than the old record.

Apparently cold weather is the time to catch big muskies. The 42-pounder which held the record since 1973 was taken in February, and the one before that (39 pounds, 14 ounces) was caught in January 1969. It's also interesting that Hash's fish is the first state record musky to come from a lake; the two previous record muskies came from the Green River and the Licking River. But lake fishing for muskellunge is getting more and more attention these days, particularly at Cave Run Lake, which is becoming known nationwide as one of the best musky waters anywhere.

And the new state record will probably make trophy musky fishermen take another look at Dale Hollow. At least one other large musky has been landed from this lake in recent months, a 30-pounder caught by Chuck Eiche, Louisville, in December, 1977. At 43 pounds, Hash's musky is the sixth largest fish on the state record list. The leader is a 100-pound blue catfish (caught below Kentucky Dam), followed by a 97-pound flathead catfish, a 72-pound spoonbill, a 54-pound, 14 ounce carp and a 44 pound, 4-ounce rockfish.

Kentucky can boast one world record fish, the 11-pound, 15-ounce smallmouth bass that David L. Hayes, Leitchfield, caught in 1955 — and this fish also came from Dale Hollow.

The commonwealth's largest largemouth came from a small lake, Greenbo, in Greenup County. Only 12 states can boast of heavier record largemouth bass, while two states, Mississippi and Texas, are tied with Kentucky's official state record of 13 pounds, 8 ounces.

If you catch an extra-large fish of any species, it's worth checking to see if you might have a new state record. The first step is to have the fish weighed on an "official" scale — that is, a scale certified legal for trade. Usually a nearby grocery store is the best place to find such a scale.

Have the weighing witnessed by at least three people and get their signatures. Record the length and girth, then contact the local conservation officer or write the Department of Fish and Wildlife, Frankfort, Ky. 40601 for an official entry blank. Have a photograph made of the fish and keep it intact in a freezer if there is any possibility of confusion with a similar species (largemouth bass and Kentucky bass, for example) in case it becomes necessary for a biologist to make a positive identification.

Even if it turns out that the fish isn't a state record, you still might be eligible for age or more awards from various outdoor organizations. Following the procedure outlined about will establish the veracity of your catch for such awards programs.

Kentucky Lake Filling Begins; Stable Water Requested

Many, many factors are involved in making spring the most popular time of the year for Tennessee anglers to go afield. Similarly, many factors are involved in the results of their spring fishing forays but one of the most important is water levels. This is particularly true of manmade lakes such as Ky., Barkley and Pickwick Reservoirs.

Fisheries workers have long believed that water level management practices prior to and during peak spawning (March 15 - June 15) have a direct effect on the catches made by sport anglers. These beliefs are based on years of data collected by wildlife agencies.

Reports of Beaver Problems Requested

COs are being asked to forward any complaints about beavers to their regional supervisors. These will then be forwarded by the supervisors to the Division of Game Management, which is currently studying the nature and extent of beaver problems in relation to the activities of man.

As a result of these beliefs and documented data, Arnold L. Mitchell, Commissioner of the Ky. Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources and Gary T. Myers, Executive Director of the Tennessee Wildlife Resources Agency have jointly and formally requested of TVA, in a letter dated March 13, 1978, that TVA consider maintaining reasonably stable water levels in both Barkley and Ky. Reservoirs from March 15 - June 15. Their letter points out that gradual rises during this period would be most beneficial and also pointed out that drastic drawdowns are detrimental to angler success. As such the directors jointly requested that drawdowns during the 3 month period be limited to no more than .2 (tenths) foot per week. If TVA is able to implement these requests and the weather is favorable sport fishing on Ky. and Barkley Reservoirs will be greatly enhanced this spring.

As of March 29 Ky. and Barkley Reservoirs were approximately 1 foot above winter pool (about 355) and normal filling is scheduled to begin April 1 and be completed by May 1. Pickwick filling began March 20 and is scheduled for completion by April 15.

140 Foot Long and 4 Story High Fish Hooked

The National Fresh Water Fishing Hall of Fame, a public supported, tax exempt, museum complex, being developed in Hayward, Wisconsin is now in the process of constructing their long planned Anglers shrine in the likeness of a Muskie. According to Bob Kutz, Founder and Volunteer Administrator, the structure will be 140 feet long and 4 stories high and cost well over 1/4 million dollars.

The big fish will be a walk-through building housing artifacts of angling & enshrining those who have contributed outstanding achievements or accomplishments to the industry in the realm of freshwater Angling, science, equipment and communication. It will also display administrative recognition of Charter Members and Charter Founders of the project as well as a wall of memorial tiles to deceased anglers.

Kutz said, "The Musky, rising from a bubbling pool of water will contain a display area the length of its body and up to its open mouth which will serve as an observation platform for visitors. The fiber-glass skin and steel structural members are being fabricated this winter and spring and the concrete base will be installed after the spring thaw. Opening of the attraction is scheduled for this early summer."

Kutz noted that construction funds were obtained from bankers who feel the rapid national credibility and collateral accumulated by the Hall assures its continued success along with projected potential support by the Angling public. "All contributions are tax deductible."

The more than 1/4th Million $ fish is the second building of the planned seven structure complex covering 7 acres. The current first museum building, opened late in 1976, has registered over 80,000 visitors to date.

The National Fishing Hall of Fame concept was spawned in 1960 and incorporated as a public foundation in 1970. Its first major support was realized in 1971 when the James B. Beam Distillery embarked on a ten year program of the manufacture and national sale of collectors fish decanters from which the Hall realizes a royalty. To date, such funds and broad public contributions in $10.00 supporting memberships and Charter Founder programs have been developing and sustaining the project.

The present museum building containing 5,000 sq. ft. houses the Hall's Administrative offices and four museum galleries, containing over 100 antique outboard motors, 200 varied fish mounts and thousands of old lures, rods, reels, accessories, and publications. Many of the artifacts are more than a century old.

Two years ago the Hall inaugurated a World Record fish program which recognizes records of 150 freshwater species by all tackle, line test and method. A world record catalog is printed each spring and quarterly updates of new records are published in the Hall of Fame quarterly news letter, "The Splash" sent to members. The catalog is available to the public by mail for $2.00.

Other programs being planned or expanded at this time are a library for information and research, adult & youth education in the realm of conservation, water safety, and angling techniques, and national casting events.

For further information, contact the National Fresh Water Fishing Hall of Fame, Box 33, Hayward, Wisconsin 54843

Bass Fishin' is bustin'. Ed Botkin from Marion, Indiana visited Kentucky Lake this month and found Blood River area a good bassing spot. Using a Bone-Colored Deep Wee R, Ed hung and landed this 8 1/2 pound lunker largemouth bass.

Izaak Walton League - 50 Years of Conservation Tradition

One of the nation's most respected conservation organizations, the IWL was founded in 1922 by 54 sportsmen and outdoor writers. Since much of their interest was in maintaining and improving sportfishing, the citizens' group they founded was named for the 17th century angler and author, Izaak Walton.

Wildlife Conservation
The first "Ikes" campaigned vigorously to preserve America's outdoor heritage. In 1924, the League became a leader in habitat preservation, with the establishment of the 300,000-acre Upper Mississippi River Wildlife and Fish Refuge.

In 1925, the purchase of land in Jackson Hole, Wyoming saved a great elk herd from starvation and helped establish now famous National Elk Refuge.

The League also worked for restoration of fish and wildlife resources through such laws as the Pittman-Robertson Act of 1937, whereby sportsmen directly support the growth of wildlife populations, the Fish and Wildlife Coordination Act of 1946, and the Marine Mammals Protection Act of 1972.

Land Preservation
Also in its early years the League was instrumental in the preservation of pristine wilderness areas in northern Minnesota which later became the Boundary Waters Canoe Area.

With its partner the IWL Endowment, the Izaak Walton League has helped set aside many thousands of acres for present and future generations.

Clean Water
Through the years, a special League emphasis has been on water quality, beginning in 1927 when President Coolidge requested the IWL to conduct the first nationwide water pollution survey.

Recently, the League staff wrote "A Citizen's Guide to Clean Water," a popular manual on the 1972 amendments to the Federal Water Pollution Control Act.

A Broad Commitment
The IWL has also shown great concern for our cities and is working to help solve the air, water and recreation problems of urban areas. Today's many other pressing environmental issues including energy, land use and solid waste reinforce the IWL's long standing commitment to the improvement of our total environment.

The members of the Izaak Walton League invite you to join in the fun and personal rewards of conservation.

Through membership, you'll share in these goals:
—Protection of forests, seashores and other natural areas.

—Improve fish and wildlife habitat.

—Clean air and water, and a quality environment for all Americans.

Your partnership will help achieve:

—Public awareness through strong education programs.

—Legal defense of key outdoor resources.

—Better communities through conservation action.

The IWL member's pledge:
"To strive for the purity of water, the clarity of air, and the wise stewardship of the land and its resources; to know the beauty and understanding of nature and the value of wildlife, woodlands and open space; to the preservation of this heritage and to man's sharing in it."

I pledge myself as a member of the Izaak Walton League of America.

In addition to the rewards of conservation achievement, every member receives:

—OUTDOOR AMERICA, the League tabloid covering national conservation news and IWL activities.

—A handsome membership pin.

—A colorful decal for home or auto.

—Opportunity for group life and health insurance.

—Reduced rates on wildlife art, books, jewelry and apparel.

The week of April 15 to 20th Izaak Walton League of America is holding a meeting at the Peoples Bank, 12th and Chestnut at 7:30 p. m. Interested persons in conservation, wildlife, archery, gun safety are invited to attend. For more information call Joe Palermo at 436-2610.

Auxiliary Program Reviews Legal Requirements

The U. S. Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla 27-5 met at the Ellis Community Center on April 7 with Richard Farrell, FC, presiding. The business meeting included the report of Division Captain Shirley T. Johnson on the Second Southern District Conference held in Memphis in March. An educational Seminar for Division XXVII will be held at Kenlake on April 29. The Flotilla will participate in National Safe Boating Week in June.

"The Score Off Shore" a film illustrating the legal requirements for boats was shown by Neale Mason, FSO-PE. Boat registration, licenses, the types of personal flotation devices (life jackets) and their uses, fire extinguishers, exhaust systems, lights and signal devices were among the requirements depicted. This film is available for showing to interested groups by the local auxiliary. Requirements seem repetitious for experienced boaters but these presentations reinforce knowledge valuable to all boaters.

The volunteer civilian auxiliary promotes boating safety through programs for the public on boating safety. Flotilla 27-5 will meet May 12 at the Ellis Center. Interested persons are invited to attend.

Explaining Away Myths About Hunting

By Paul M. Kelsey
New York State Division of Fish and Wildlife

Every year there are a few people who stop in at our deer checking stations and wonder how anyone can kill one of those beautiful, brown-eyed deer. Fortunately, most of those who stop in like that are near enough to the land so that they understand the need to control the number of deer living in an area. However, they don't feel that they actually could kill a deer—even if it meant saving their garden, shrubs or crops.

As we move from the rural situation, where residents can see the interplay between plant and animal communities of the land, and get into urban areas where there is little to see except what can be attracted to a feeder, there is less understanding of Mother Nature's way of operating. In the minds of many, birds and animals take on the same thoughts as humans, and are considered more as precious individuals, rather than as members of an ecosystem.

There is an ever-increasing number of people who look at wildlife as so many individual animals, and consider the death of any one as a serious loss. In addition, the method of death becomes important, and I don't know of any method which isn't considered by some as being cruel and inhumane. This extension of human fear of death to animals is unfortunate, for there is no evidence that any animal, except man, is aware of the inevitable end of life.

If killing anything meets your definition of being cruel, removal of animals from a population by hunting is cruel. Many vociferous opponents of hunting and trapping have this feeling, and sincerely want to stop what they consider to be the suffering of wildlife. Unfortunately, this thinking does not go as far as it should, for it assumes that the "Saved" animals live happily ever after, and it does not recognize that in nature there is no such thing as non-violent death.

Year after year Mother Nature produces so many more young of each species than are needed to sustain a healthy population, that most never survive to the next year. Only about 20 percent of the pheasants last out the year, and rabbits don't even do as well as that.

The four key reasons are predation, starvation, disease and weather.

From an ecological point of view, the hunter is just another predator—however, the only predator controlled by specific hunting seasons—and his effect on the population is governed by the same principles that govern the effect of predators like the fox, owl, hawk, weasel and others.

In the case of deer, and some of the higher predators on the food chain, where man has replaced natural enemies, a ban on hunting would, and often has caused a catastrophic increase in populations.

Deer are noted for quickly outstripping their range when over-populated. The starvation which follows takes all winter before the lack of adequate food finally weakens the deer so it patiently lies down in its bed and death mercifully relieves it of its hunger pangs during the cold night.

The present high price of furs marks the end of a 30-year period when very few long-haired furbearers were trapped. Disease periodically reduced their numbers. Rabies kept red fox under control from the days immediately following World War II, until sarcoptic mange took over the job about a decade ago.

The mite which causes sarcoptic mange spreads easily when there is a high population. The disease starts with just a little flaking of the skin, but progresses to oozing sores and the loss of hair over the whole animal. It is a slow and a painful disease taking four to six months to kill its host. Hopefully, the current high price of fox pelts will encourage enough trapping to keep a healthy population.

Weather can cause death by exposure where there is lack of protective cover, particularly where there is lack of protective cover, particularly where animals are weakened by undue competition for food.

Death in the wild is never without its pain, though it may be the merciful end to weeks of suffering from disease or hunger. It is the sincere desire of every sportsman to make his kill as quick and clean as possible; one probably more merciful than would have been in store for the quarry, had it been permitted to die a "Natural."

Crustacean Living in Iron Drain Pipe

A 90-foot piece of iron drain pipe leading to an abandoned bath house in New Mexico is the only home for 2,500 remaining Socorro isopods. The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has proposed that this relative of the common sowbug be listed as an endangered species because of the link it may provide in the ecological and evolutionary web. This half-inch freshwater crustacean, which eats the algae lining the drain pipes, is one of only two freshwater species in a family that is otherwise entirely ocean-dwelling. Biologists think it may be a key to understanding how this and other landlocked relic animals evolved from ancient marine isopods that lived in the oceans that once covered much of the western U.S. The Socorro isopod adapted to the warm fresh water of a spring, where it lived for millions of years until the spring was capped in 1949. Then it was down the drain pipe for this animal, threatened now by periodic drought and flushing of the pipes.

On a solo crappie fishing trip last Sunday, Buddy Boyd limited out with 50 beautiful slab-sides from Barkley Lake.

A Recreational Vehicle

Nothing can match the pride of ownership, the pleasure and the sense of independence you can derive from owning your own recreation vehicle. It's an exciting way to enjoy your hunting trips and yet be free of the uncertainties of where to eat and sleep. But if your budget is such that you can't afford an RV, and if your work schedule doesn't give you enough time to get maximum enjoyment from an RV, you might want to consider renting an RV. It's a fun way of taking the hunting trip you want to and still stay within the travel budget.

About 10 per cent of the RV units on the road are rentals, but this percentage will vary with the locale. Most of these units have "all the comforts of home" including full bathroom and kitchen facilities, adequate sleeping and sitting space and dependable vehicular parts such as motor tires, transmission, etc. Renting RV units is a competitive business, so dealers try to provide you with reliable and comfortable units to get your business and that of your acquaintances.

If you don't know of dealers in your area, check the Yellow

Pages under "Campers and Pick Up Coaches," "Mobile Homes," "Motor Homes," "trailers," "Recreation Vehicles," etc. If none of these headings appears in your book, try calling some local auto and truck dealers for the names of dealers who rent units.

Then shop around. Visit the dealers whose price and terms appeal to you. Compare. Make a checklist of the features you need and want. Run down the checklist for each vehicle you are considering. Watch for such conveniences as double sinks, adequate storage space, shower, good heating and air conditioning systems, large refrigerators, stability in driving and handling, and ease in reaching and using the features of the unit.

Unless your heart is really set on a particular type of RV, try a variety of units such as trailers, campers, motor homes, 5th wheelers and vans. You might find one type much more convenient to your wants and needs.

The Recreation Vehicle Dealers of America have a dealer directory. They're at 711 Orchard Street, Deerfield, Ill. 60015.

For consumer type information, contact the Camping Vehicle Sales Institute at Suite 2202, 1660 North LaSalle Street, Chicago, Ill. 60614.

Savings on rental? That's hard to say. For the average trip, there tends to be a savings over staying in motels or lodges and eating out. But part of the fun and adventure of hunting trip is enjoying different surroundings and outdoor life. A rental RV may provide you with the means for a comfortable and pleasant trip even through its cost is comparable to a motel or restaurant trip.

You just might find it a great way to get the most out of your hunting trip!

It's A Record!

A recent trip to Dale Hollow Lake in southern Kentucky by an Edmonton man has produced the thrill of a lifetime. Porter Has returned to the dock on March 13 with a state record muskellunge.

Hash was trolling a deep running lure in Dale Hollow when he landed his prize catch, which weighed 43 pounds and measured 52 inches in length and 26 inches around. The musky eclipsed the old state record of 42 pounds which was taken in February, 1973, by Glenn Terrell of Morhead.

Louis Duncan, Route 1, Almo, caught this big ol' snake with his bare hands down at Red's Hollow on Kentucky Lake recently. While hand grabbing snapping turtles is not recommended to novices, Duncan's experience and quick hands prevented the turtle from clamping down on him.

Bucks Seem To Have No Intent Of Stopping

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

The Milwaukee Bucks have come a long way in a year, and now that they've reached the National Basketball Association playoff quarterfinals, they have no intention of stopping.

The Bucks, weakest team in the Western Conference last season, edged the Phoenix Suns 94-90 Friday night for a stunning sweep of their best-of-three first-round mini-series.

"We weren't given a chance to do anything in this series, but I know that if we play well we can beat anybody," said Bucks guard Brian Winters, who hit a pair of long jumpers in the final two minutes to clinch the upset.

Two other first-round series also ended in two-game sweeps on Friday. The Washington Bullets, in the playoffs for the 10th consecutive year, beat the Atlanta Hawks 107-103 in overtime, and the New York Knicks, once playoff fixtures but now in post-season competition for the first time in three years, nipped the Cleveland Cavaliers 109-107.

The other series, however, will be going to a third game as the Los Angeles Lakers defeated the Seattle SuperSonics 105-99 to even it at one victory apiece. The decisive game will be played Sunday at Seattle.

Also Sunday will be the opening games of two of the best-of-seven quarter-final playoffs series, with New York at Philadelphia to face the 76ers and Washington at San Antonio to take on the Spurs.

Because McNicholls Arena in Denver is booked by an ice show, the quarter-final series between the Milwaukee Bucks and Denver Nuggets will not get underway until Tuesday night.

Bucks 94, Suns 90

Rookie Marques Johnson, the best of the young Bucks, led the victory over Phoenix with 33 points in the game which was played before a noisy sellout crowd of 10,938 at the Milwaukee Arena.

The Bucks fell behind by 13 points in the early going, but moved in front during the third quarter and then stayed on top. The first of Winters' two big baskets came with 1:50 to play and made it 91-88. A steal and dunk by Paul Westphal cut it back to 1, but Winters canned a 25-footer with 19 seconds left for the clincher.

Bullets 107, Hawks 103

"That was my first good game in about three weeks," said Washington guard Kevin Grevey, who shook off the effects of a pulled leg muscle and scored 41 points as the Bullets put an end to the Hawks' Cinderella season.

Knicks 109, Cavaliers 107

Spencer Haywood came off the bench to score 27 points for the Knicks, including a 15-foot jumper with two seconds to play for the winning basket.

Lakers 105, Sonics 99

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 24 points, grabbed 18 rebounds, blocked 7 shots and handed out 4 assists as the Lakers evened their series with Seattle.

The Lakers stretched a 1-point lead to 11 at 99-88, then hung on as Seattle closed to within 101-99 in the final minute. But Adrian Dantley hit four free throws in the last 24 seconds to put the Lakers out of reach.

Racers Fourth In Kentucky Golf Tourney

RICHMOND, Ky. (AP) — Eastern Kentucky held a slight lead over Kentucky today as the Kentucky Intercollegiate Golf Tournament moved into the final round here.

Dave Gaer posted a course record 64 Friday as he scored nine birdies against one bogie on his afternoon tour of the par-72 Arlington Golf Club course. He suffered a two-overpar 74 in the opening 18 holes and found himself one stroke behind Kentucky's Russ Cochran in the individual university division standings.

Cochran had rounds of 72 and 65 in posting a 36-hole score of 137.

Eastern Kentucky led the university division with a 565 score, with defending champion Kentucky at 570. Morehead was a distant third at 589, followed by Murray at 604, Western Kentucky at 609 and Louisville at 620.

In the college division, Bellarmine lead with a 612 score, with Cumberland at 623 and Northern Kentucky and Campbellsville tied for third at 625. Bellarmine's Gary Skaggs lead the college division individual race with a 145 score, two shots better than Georgetown's Gary Flesher and three up on Cumberland's John Reed.

Kentucky Wesleyan was fifth in the ten-team college division with 644, followed by Georgetown at 649, Centre at 650, Asbury at 653, Transylvania at 657 and Pikeville at 743.

Taylor, Gibbs Sparkle But Tigers Only Split

By MIKE BRANDON
Ledger & Times Sports Editor

You could go all your life and never see two homerun balls caught over the fence in one season.

But, what was at Western Kentucky two weeks ago, wasn't at Murray High Friday afternoon.

Two weeks ago, Murray State's Robin Courtney hit a ball over the centerfield fence and the Western Kentucky centerfielder went with the ball and made the catch. Courtney was called out.

It didn't work that way for the Tigers. Matt Nation of Henderson County hit a high drive in leftfield at Holmdel Stadium. The ball, and leftfielder David Mathis, both went over the fence.

Mathis landed on the sidewalk and held on to the ball for a tremendous catch, apparently ending the top of the eighth inning and a Colone scoring threat. In fact, one umpire said Nation was out and the Tigers even left the field.

Henderson County protested and unlike the game at Western, the visitors got the break this time. The ball was ruled a three-run homer and the Colones posted a 4-3 win, keeping Murray High from winning a twinbill.

In the nightcap, Henderson County didn't hit anything as far as or as hard as righthander Alan Gibbs kept down the controversy with a three-hitter in firing Murray High to a 2-1 win.

Brad Taylor was coasting along with a 1-0 shutout in the seventh inning of the first game. He had supplied the only run in the last of the first when he singled in Thomas Kendall who had walked and stolen second.

But Henderson's Jeff Hall led off the seventh with a homerun to tie the score then in the eighth, the homerun that wasn't a homerun that was a homerun put the Colones ahead 4-1.

Undaunted by all the fury of the top of the eighth, the Tigers came back and nearly pulled off the win—they deserved.

Kendall drew a one out walk and after two were out, Bob Thurman singled into right. The ball skipped past the Henderson rightfielder and Kendall scored while Thurman scooted all the way to third. Then Taylor reached on an error by the third baseman to score Thurman and make it a 4-3 game but John Denham bounced to third to end the contest.

Both teams had just five hits. Taylor was brilliant, fanning 11 men while walking just two in his eighth innings of work.

In the nightcap, the hard-throwing Gibbs scattered just three hits as the Tigers gained the split with a well-played 2-1 victory.

Gibbs fanned seven batters while walking three and showing much better control than he did in his first outing when he was removed after two innings in a 6-5 win over Mayfield.

The Tigers scored one in the first as freshman Bruce Taylor singled to score Thomas Kendall, who had walked and went to second when Brad Taylor drew a free pass.

In the second, Murray made it 2-0 as Dean Cherry led off with a single, went to second on a sacrifice bunt by Mickey Spann and scored on a Gibbs' single.

Henderson's only run was unearned and came in the top of the third when after a walk, the runner attempted to steal second. The throw went into center, the runner to third. He scored on a fielder's choice groundout.

Henderson managed to put a man on third with two out in the top of the seventh but Gibbs retired the final batter.

Murray High is now 4-1 on the season and will play at Marshall County Monday before hosting Henry County to a 4 p. m. twinbill Tuesday.

TOUGH LUCK LOSER — Brad Taylor fanned 11 batters and walked only two yet lost a 4-3 controversial game to Henderson County. Taylor was beaten in the eighth inning on a three-run homer which was caught on a brilliant play.

Pat Chimes Runs Mile In 4:01.5 At Dogwoods

Coaches usually don't care for their athletes flirting. However, the type of flirting Pat Chimes has been doing recently is pleasing. Chimes has been flirting with a sub-four-minute mile.

The Murray State University sophomore ran his personal best mile Friday night in his leg of the four-mile relay at the Dogwood relays in Knoxville.

Chimes recorded a 4:01.5 on the anchor leg and helped the Racers to a strong fifth place finish in the event. National champion Villanova won the event in 16:16.9 while Western Michigan was second in 16:18.2 and Eastern Michigan third in 16:19.2. In fourth place was Penn State with a 16:20.8 while behind Murray's 16:24.9 was Tennessee with a 16:25.3 for sixth.

Martyn Brewer led off for the Racers with a 4:09.4 then Dave Rafferty recorded a 4:07.8. Dave Warren took the third leg and turned in a 4:06.2 before Chimes blistered the track.

Freshman Keith O'Meally recorded a personal best of 1:53.5 in the 800 meters but failed to place while in the 5,000 meters, Brian Rutter had his season best of 14:32.2 and Richard Charleston a personal best of 14:40.4 but both failed to place.

The bulk of the meet will be held today.

Jennings, Tillman To Be Inducted Into Hall

By JOE TOM ERWIN
MSU Sports Publicity

Jim Jennings, who played basketball for Murray State University from 1961-64, and Larry Tillman, who played football from 1965-68, have been named to the MSU Athletic Hall of Fame. The two will be inducted at the Murray State All-sports Banquet May 3.

Jennings, a 6-6 center from Dayton, Ohio, ranks eighth among Murray's all-time scorers with 1370 points. He is fourth among players who played only three seasons. He was named to the All-Ohio Valley Conference team each of the years he played for Murray, and in 1964, when the Racers won the league title and played in the NCAA Tournament, he was "Player of the Year" in the conference.

His career scoring average was 19.3 and his career rebounding average 16.2. He hit 45 percent of his field goals and 66 percent of his free throws. He ranked seventh in the nation in rebounding in 1962 when he averaged 17.2.

Murray won 42 games and lost 30 during the three seasons Jennings played. The Racers were 16-8 in 1964 when they lost 101-91 to Loyola, the defending national champion, in the NCAA. Jennings scored 24 points in that game.

Tillman, a 5-9, 170-pound quarterback from Ripley, Tenn., guided Murray to one of its best records ever in 1968 (7-2-1) and still holds most of the MSU passing records. He was named the OVC's "Offensive Player of the Year" in 1968. He played his first season at Murray as a defensive back and was named to the all OVC team at that position in 1965. As a reserve quarterback in 1966, he completed 32 of 71 passes for 463 yards and 3 touchdowns. He started at quarterback in 1967 and completed 190 of 380 passes for 2,300 yards and 18 touchdowns. In 1968, he completed 162 of 307 passes for 2,206 yards and 25 touchdowns. His career passing statistics are 384 completions in 758 attempts for 4969 yards and 46 touchdowns. All are Murray records and most are OVC records.

In a 35-14 victory over Middle Tennessee in 1967, he completed 28 of 51 passes for 425 yards and 4 touchdowns. He once threw 5 touchdown passes against Austin Peay. The Racers lost the OVC championship in 1968 when they were edged 21-20 by Eastern Kentucky. A Tillman touchdown pass in the final seconds which would have won the game, was disallowed because of a penalty.

Are you a Peeking Tom?

When you're cooking food in the oven, do you constantly open the door to peek inside? Every time you do, you let out 20 percent of the oven's heat. This is wasted heat. And wasted money in your electric bill. What's more, when you oven-peek in the summer months, you're throwing heat on your air conditioner. And this puts more wasted money in your electric bill.

Play it cool when you cook in the oven. Don't be a Peeking Tom.

NAMED OUTSTANDING—Marylan Fegan, left, and Thelma Potts, right, were selected for special honors as a part of the Rose Company's Recognition and Awards Program, according to S. B. Smith, manager of Rose's Department Store in Central Shopping Center Murray. Miss Fegan was selected as the outstanding division manager in the store, and was selected because of her knowledge of merchandise, skill in buying, merchandise presentation ability, leadership ability, and community involvement. Mrs. Potts was selected as outstanding salesperson for the year 1977. She has been with Roses for five years and is in the houseware department.

KENTUCKY BUSINESS SCENE

Jeffersontown Uses Self-Insurance Pool

The city of Jeffersontown joined the Kentucky Municipal League in early April, but it wasn't because city officials wanted to take advantage of the league's normal activities on behalf of its member cities in the Commonwealth.

Instead, it was because the Jefferson County city wanted to participate in a new self-insurance pool for workmen's compensation coverage now being established by the Municipal League and the Kentucky Association of Counties.

According to Jeffersontown Councilman James Skaggs, who is the city council's finance chairman, his city's annual League dues of $682 "will more than pay for itself in the workmen's compensation deal they've put together." Participants in the pool are expected to save about 15 percent of their workmen's compensation insurance costs through the group self-insurance plan.

Formation of such plans was authorized in the 1976 special session of the Kentucky legislature, and implementing regulations were issued by the state Department of Insurance in late 1977. No group self-insurance plans have been officially formed but a number are in the organizational stages.

What this means is that small Kentucky businesses, professional groups and trade associations now have an option as to how they obtain the increasing costly but mandatory workmen's compensation coverage, an option expected to save them many dollars in premiums.

Existing groups like the Municipal League, the Association of Counties, coal groups and associations of automobile dealers, contractors, hospitals and school boards have expressed early interest in group self-insurance plans and are natural vehicles for such coverage; new groups can be formed for this purpose among small companies that have similar types of employment and similar risk patterns—for example, owners of small independent laundries or meat packing plants.

"I really think there are a number of Kentucky businesses that could benefit from group self-insurance but that haven't heard about the new option," said Larry Young, assistant director of the Kentucky Workmen's Compensation Board. "After the first one gets going, I think more will be formed rapidly."

He said inquiries about group self-insurance have come from all over Kentucky, and he is "convinced that it can be a viable option for small Kentucky businesses, with substantial savings" of 20 percent or more on their workmen's compensation costs.

Individual self-insurance plans have previously been available for large companies with substantial assets, and about 200 Kentucky businesses now take advantage of such

The IRS allows taxpayers to deduct personal casualty or theft losses for both real and personal property. Individuals who itemize their deductions can deduct the amount of the loss that is in excess of $100, less any amount covered by insurance. Businesses, the IRS points out, are not subject to this $100 exclusion.

The amount of any casualty or theft loss is the difference between the fair market value immediately before and immediately after a loss. The loss cannot be greater than the original cost or the cost of any improvements you might have made.

Here's how to compute a fire loss involving a living room sofa. Suppose the fair market value of the sofa before fire damage was $850. After the damage, the fair market value was $350. In this example, the casualty loss is $500, or $850 minus $350.

Next reduce the $500 figure by any insurance proceeds and the $100 tax deductible. If the insurance company covered $250 of the above loss, the deduction for income tax purposes would be $150 ($500 minus $250 equals $250, less the $100 tax deductible equals $150). This $100 exclusion applies to each loss during the year.

The Institute points out that in order to deduct a casualty or theft loss, you must be able to show proof of loss. This includes: theft loss, you must be able to show proof of loss. This includes: nature of the casualty and when it was discovered; that the loss was the direct result of the casualty or theft; that you owned the property; fair market value of property before and after the loss and the amount of insurance or other compensation received.

Items that would be helpful in proving your loss include police reports of any accident or theft, statement from witnesses and repair bills.

More detailed information on the proper handling of theft and casualty losses is available in IRS Publication 547, titled "Tax Information on Disasters, Casualty Losses and Thefts." Also, Form 4684, "Casualties and Thefts," is helpful in determining the amount of the loss. Both publications are available free of charge from your regional IRS office.

Remember, however, you can deduct personal casualty or theft losses only if you itemize your deductions on Schedule A of your income tax return.

NEW BUSINESS

Cliff Heegel Sweeps Up

Cliff Heegel's business is really on top of it all. In fact, he's actually making a clean sweep of things. But then that's his business. You see Heegel is the owner, operator, and chief sweeper of the "Magic Chimney," chimney sweeps.

The age old profession of sweeping chimneys is still an enforced law in some countries and Heegel saw dollar signs in a marketable service in this area.

"I read of some fellows in New England starting this sort of business and did some inquiring on procedure, and how to get equipment, then I decided to do it," he explained.

He's been in business since the first of March and has found the business well accepted.

"One woman told me she had been trying to find someone to clean her chimney for over two years," Heegel said.

According to the National Fire Protection Agency there were 40,000 of the fires started last year attributed to chimney fires.

Chimney fires can occur as result of an accumulation of creosote, a residue left from burning wood, igniting and starting a fire. If a chimney is used regularly it should be cleaned to avoid a build up of creosote, Heegel said.

Cliff Heegel

When Heegel comes to a house to clean a chimney he follows a step by step procedure. First the chimney is cleaned from the bottom with a wire brush, attached to the fiber glass poles, then he cleans out the fule from the top down, next comes the smoke chamber and the smoke shelf, and finally the damper. All the time he is cleaning there is a high powered dust collector keeping the dust from entering the room.

Heegel a member of "The American Chimney Sweep Guild," is presently available for appointments. He also gives free estimates, cleans out animal nests, and installs bird screens.

A native of Atlanta, Heegel moved to Murray with his wife, Jennifer and little girl Serenity, 9 months.

rate increases have been instituted several times over the past few years, leading Kentucky business leaders to say that the workmen's compensation situation is "the biggest single negative factor in the Kentucky business climate," driving many business-industrial prospects to locate in other states and preventing expansion by some businesses already established in Kentucky.

But the prospect of lower rates through the new concept of group self-insurance is an encouraging sign, they say, adding that while the number of employers who eventually participate may not be large, at least there is an attractive option now for the small business that feels the financial crunch of increasing rates most acutely.

LEGAL NOTICE
MURRAY-CALLOWAY COUNTY AIRPORT BOARD, MURRAY, KY.
NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS
CONSTRUCTION OF RUNWAY IMPROVEMENTS
MURRAY-CALLOWAY COUNTY AIRPORT, MURRAY, KY.

Sealed proposals will be received by the Murray-Calloway County Airport Board, at the Murray City Hall, Murray, Ky., on May 5, 1978, until 1:00 p.m. local time, and at that hour open and publicly read for the following described project:

Construction of a 1,000 ft. X 75 ft. runway extension, including tree trimming, site preparation and paving of the runway extension, extension and modification of the medium intensity runway lighting system, relocation of VASI 2 units, and relocation of a portion of a county road.

Copies of the PLANS, SPECIFICATIONS, PROPOSALS, etc. may be examined at the following places without charge:

1. Office of County Projects Coordinator, County Court House, Murray, Ky.
2. F.W. Dodge Corporation, Louisville, Ky.
3. F.W. Dodge Corporation, 325 Park Blvd., Suite 100, Nashville, Tenn.
4. Larry D. McClanahan and Associates, 200 East Franklin Street, Galatin, Tenn. 37066.
5. Builders Exchange, 120 East Brandeis, Louisville, Ky.
6. Murray-Calloway County Airport Terminal Building.

For bidding purposes, PLANS, SPECIFICATIONS and CONTRACT DOCUMENTS including the proposal, may be obtained from the Murray-Calloway County Airport Manager or Larry D. McClanahan and Associates, 200 East Franklin Street, Galatin, Tenn. 37066, upon the deposit of 75 dollars. The deposits of the contractors who submit legal bids (excepting the successful bidder) will be returned upon receipt of the PLANS and SPECIFICATIONS in good condition within ten (10) days after bids are open with a deduction of 25 dollars to cover the cost of reproduction and handling.

All bidders must be licensed contractors to perform the type of construction herein described as required by the COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY.

The bidders name and license number must be placed on the envelope containing the contractors bid.

Bidders attention is directed to SPECIFICATIONS and CONTRACT DOCUMENTS for the proposed project relative to the WAGE, LABOR, and EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY requirements.

The City of Murray and Calloway County, Ky., in accordance with TITLE VI of the CIVIL RIGHTS ACT of 1964, 78 STAT. 252, 42 U.S.C. 2000d to 2000d-4 and TITLE VI, CODE OF FEDERAL REGULATIONS, DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION, SUBTITLE A, OFFICE OF SECRETARY, PART 21, NON DISCRIMINATION IN FEDERALLY ASSISTED PROGRAMS OF THE DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION issued pursuant to such ACT, hereby notifies all bidders that it will affirmatively insure that in any contract entered into pursuant to this advertisement, minority business enterprises will be afforded full opportunity to submit bids in response to this invitation and will not be discriminated against on the grounds of race, color, or national origin in consideration of an award.

Dr. Tolley Named As Commission Consultant

Dr. Charles H. Tolley, director of the Division of Higher Education in the Department of Professional Studies at Murray State University, has been named a consultant for a commission of the American Association of Community and Junior Colleges (AACJC).

He was appointed at the national AACJC convention in Atlanta April 8-13 to serve with the Commission on Small Rural Community Colleges as a consultant for teacher preparation programs for 551 two-year colleges across the country.

Tolley, a member of the faculty at Murray State since 1971, was recommended by Dr. William H. McCoy, president of Lord Fairfax Community College in Midletown, Va., and commission chairman.

McCoy said the program headed by Tolley has achieved "well-deserved recognition" (it) is among the national leaders in the pre-service graduate training of two-year college instructional personnel.

Noting that many of the Murray State higher education graduates are oriented toward service in small, rural-based community colleges, McCoy said Tolley's experience will be valuable in helping "to stimulate a greater degree of preparatory and in-service training to meet the developing conditions of the hundreds of America's small colleges located in sparsely populated areas."

Since Tolley took the leadership of the higher education program at Murray State in 1971, about 150 students have earned master's and specialist degrees designed to prepare them for teaching roles in two-year colleges.

Graduates of the program, which was begun in 1969, are now employed in approximately 50 community and senior colleges in some 20 states across the country.

In addition to his experience at Murray State, Tolley has 15 years of experience at two-year colleges as administrator, teacher, and counselor.

A native of Murray, he earned the B.S. and M.A. in Education degrees at Murray State, the Ed. S. degree at New Mexico State University, and the Ed. D. degree at the University of Tulsa.

Christian Church Services Planned Here On Sunday

The Rev. Dr. David C. Ross will speak on the subject, "Fear and Freedom!" at the 10:45 a. m. worship services on Sunday, April 16, at the First Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), North Fifth Street, Murray.

"Rejoice In The Lord" will be anthem to be sung by the Chancel Choir, directed by Margaret Porter with Jane Hutson as organist.

Jim Clinkenbeard will be worship leader, Danny Fleming; will be candle lighter, and Mrs. Guthrie Churchill and Mr. and Mrs. John Will Scarborough will be greeters.

Elders serving will be Walt Apperson and Del Fleming, Henry Fulton, John Ford Hall, Coleman McKeel, Dan McKeel, and Robert Puttiff will serve as deacons.

The flowers on the communion table will be in memory of deceased members of the Wear-Helm Service Circle Class by the class.

Sunday School will be at 9:30 a. m. Sunday.

The Junior Choir will meet at five p.m., the God Squad with the Methodist Youth as guests at 5:30 p.m., and senior youth group and vespers at six p. m.

AUSTRALIAN PROJECT—Part of the "1969, Wrapped Coast" project at Little Bay, Australia, by Christo is shown in this photograph. Plans, models, elevations, and photographic documents of the million-square-foot project are part of an exhibit by Christo on display in the Clara M. Eagle Gallery at Murray State University through April 19.

Exhibition By Christo Is At MSU

An exhibition of drawings and photographs by Christo, an internationally known artist, will be on display at Murray State University through April 19.

The show in the Clara M. Eagle Gallery of the Price Doyle Fine Arts Center consists of detailed plans, models, elevations, and photographic documents of Christo's "1969, Wrapped Coast, Little Bay, Australia."

That project covered a million square feet of a rock-bound coast at Little Bay and included a million square feet of erosion control mesh (synthetic fiber usually used for agricultural purposes), 35 miles of polypropylene rope, and 25,000 charges of fastenings, threaded studs, and clips.

Gallery hours are 7:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturdays, and 1 to 4 p.m. on Sundays.

Memorial Services Planned On Sunday

The Memorial Baptist Church will hear the pastor, the Rev. Jerrell White, speak at the 10:30 a. m. and seven p. m. worship services on Sunday, April 16. Rob Lough, deacon of the week, will assist in the services.

Directing the music at the morning hour will be J. T. Lee and at the evening hour, J. B. Taylor. Margaret Wilkins will be organist and Jane Rogers will be pianist.

Church School will be at 9:40 a. m. with Elbert Thomason as director, and Church Training will be at six p. m. and J. T. Lee as director.

Rev. Max Sledd To Speak Sunday For Grace Baptists

The Rev. Max Sledd, foreign missionary to Nigeria, will speak at the 10:45 a. m. worship services on Sunday, April 16, at the Grace Baptist Church, South Ninth Street, Murray.

At the 5:30 p. m. service on Sunday the pastor, the Rev. R. J. Burpo, will be the speaker.

The song service will be directed by Ronald Hardison, music director, with Dwane Jones as organist and Anita Underhill as pianist. Special music will be by Terry Downey.

Sunday School will be at 9:45 a.m., with Steve Smotherman as superintendent and Josephine Manning as secretary. Nursery workers will be Carolyn Caldwell, Roberta Hall, Josephine Futrell, Joyce Underhill, and Lottie Hall. Clifton Jones, 492-8766, is bus driver for April, but for information call Don Hale, 753-3063.

The teachers and officers will meet Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. with prayer service and youth study group to be at seven p. m.

Episcopal Church Plans Communion

Holy Communion will be celebrated at the St. John's Episcopal Church, Main and Broad Streets, Murray, at the 9:45 a.m. worship service on Sunday, April 16, with the Rev. Stephen Davenport as the celebrant.

Serving as acolyte will be Mike Shore, and as lay leader, Anita Burt. Church School will follow at eleven a. m.

V.E. Howard Speaker For Gospel Meet

The Seventh and Poplar Church of Christ will hold a gospel meeting starting Sunday, April 16, and continuing through Friday, April 21, with Bro. V. E. Howard as the speaker for the services on Sunday at 8:30 and 10:40 a.m. and six p.m. and throughout the week at 7:30 p.m.

Fellowship dinners will be held each evening at six p.m., Monday through Friday, in the multi-purpose room of the church. Sunday School classes will be responsible for the dinners each evening.

Assisting in the services on Sunday will be John Dale, Mark Pugh, Kim Weatherford, Gene McDougal, Jim Payne, Jerry Bolls, Amos Hill, Forest Boyd, Lorin Watson, Jim Mowery, Lenith Rogers, and Max Walker.

Presiding for The Lord's Supper will be Richard Duke, Lennie Furr, Jon T. Carpenter, and Ted Howard.

Glenda Manners will be the teen nursery helper. Greg Garland, Bud Gibbs, Ken Hopkins, and Glen Gibbs will serve on the Extension Department.

Bible study will be held at 9:40 a.m. Sunday.

Kenneth Hoover To Speak, University Church Of Christ

Bro. Kenneth Hoover will speak at the 10:30 a. m. and six p. m. worship services on Sunday, April 16, at the University Church of Christ. Ernie Bailey will direct the song service with Leroy Eldridge to make the announcements.

Sermon topics will be "God Picture of God" with scripture from John 14:1-9, morning, and "Fruits of Fellowship With God" with scripture from 1 John 1:1-4, evening.

Assisting in the services will be Vernon Gantt, George Gallagher, Harold Grogan, J. H. Nix, and Tommy Taylor.

Bob Melugin, Richard Smith, Bill Boyd, Orrin Bickel, Larry Dunn, James Lawson, Rob Gingles, Sherrill Gargus, and Keith Hays will serve The Lord's Supper.

Bible Study will be at 9:30 a. m. Sunday.

Brinkley Qualifies For Competition

Calloway County High student John Brinkley has qualified in the oratory category for competition in the National Forensic League's Kentucky District Tournament at Morehead State University. Some 20 schools participated in the qualifying tournament.

Brinkley was an individual winner in that tournament. He and others with the speech team will be honored in an assembly at Calloway County High Monday.

Presbyterians To Hear Rev. Rabatin

The First Presbyterian Church, Main and 16th Streets, Murray, will have worship services at 10:45 a. m. on Sunday, April 16, with the pastor, the Rev. Buzz Rabatin, to speak on the subject, "I, Judas," with scripture from Matthew 26 and 27.

Special music will be by the choir, directed by Kathy Mowery with Lisa Slater as organist.

Church School will be at 9:30 a. m. Sunday.

Announcements were made of adult choir rehearsal on Wednesday at 6:30 p.m.; work day for Saturday, April 22, from nine a. m. to noon; Presbyterian on April 26; Vacation Church School, June 19-23, with Ethlyn Loberger as director.

Concert By Choir To Be Presented At Baptist Church

The Baptist Student Union Choir of Murray State University with Steve Mitcheiner as director will present a concert at the seven p.m. services on Sunday, April 16, at the First Baptist Church, Murray. Doug Vancil will be the organist.

At the 10:45 a.m. service the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Bill Whittaker, will speak on the subject, "Half-Baked Religion" with scripture from Hosea 7:8-10, Jamie Washer, deacon of the week, and Randy Sorrow, minister of youth, will assist in the services.

The Church Choir, directed by Wayne Halley with Richard Jones as organist, will sing at the morning service. A solo, "I Choose Jesus," will be sung by Mr. Halley.

Volunteer nursery workers will be Mr. and Mrs. David Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Randy Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. Don Robinson, Miss Patti Robinson, Mrs. Phil Duncan, Randy May, Mrs. A. C. Sanders, and Miss Carol Spann.

Sunday School will be at 9:30 a.m. and Youth Church Training will be at 5:45 p.m.

Joan Berthelette Awarded Ada Ryan Scholarship Grant

Joan Berthelette of Millville, Mass., has been awarded the $500 Ada Ryan Memorial Scholarship in psychology at Murray State University for the 1978-79 school year.

Miss Berthelette, who has a double major in psychology and English, is an honor student who has been on the Dean's List each semester at Murray State. She is a member of the undergraduate psychology research group which presented two papers at the Southeastern Psychological Association meeting in Atlanta in March.

Her mother is Mrs. Laurie Berthelette of Quaker Street in Millville, Mass.

Awarded for the second time this spring, the Ada Ryan Memorial Scholarship is presented to a senior psychology major on the basis of academic standing, professionalism, research activities, and the expectation of significant contribution of psychology.

A faculty committee in the Department of Psychology determines the scholarship recipient.

POMONA, Calif. (AP) —

Steve Ford says he is confident his mother, Betty Ford, can solve her latest problems. "The good Lord seems to keep challenging her with tasks and she hasn't failed yet," he said.

The former first lady is undergoing treatment for drug dependence.

"I think there are a lot of people in this country who are on medication and they have a social drink every night," Ford said in a telephone interview Friday. "My mother does drink, just as many other people do in this country. There always seems to be a problem mixing alcohol with drugs."

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —

E. Jerome Malry knows what it's like to struggle with clogged pipes and leaky faucets. This summer the third-generation licensed plumber will know what it's like to compete in the Tchaikovsky International Piano Competition.

Although being among those invited to the prestigious competition in Moscow is an accomplishment in itself, the young, black classical pianist has his sights set on winning.

"I must win... I know without a doubt I will. It's the work I've done all these years that will do it," said Malry, 28.

CHICAGO (AP) — A newspaper editor says he is concerned that German-Americans will suffer from the effects of a Jewish organization's educational campaign on the Holocaust of World War II.

All Germans are not born Nazis, says Klaus Palinkas, assistant editor of a German language newspaper in Chicago.

"We object to teaching a course solely based on Nazi atrocities during the war. Germans do not have a corner on atrocities," he said.

INTERNATIONAL

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (AP) — Rhodesian guerrilla leaders say they are willing to meet with representatives of the interim government in Salisbury to negotiate a settlement based on a U.S.-British peace plan, but there is no indication the new government will agree.

Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance planned to meet again today with Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe, leaders of the Patriotic Front guerrilla alliance, to push the Anglo-American plan which calls for the stationing of a U.N. force in Rhodesia during the transition to black majority rule and a resident British commissioner.

ROME (AP) — The kidnapping, four weeks ago of former Premier Aldo Moro and the killing of his five bodyguards has left an indelible mark of fear on the country and struck deep at the core of Italy.

Many restaurants shut down early at night in Rome and other cities and movie houses with a late show are often deserted. Italians have rediscovered life at home.

There has been little grumbling over the house-to-house searches or the long delays at roadblocks put up around Rome in the so-far futile effort to track down the Red Brigades terrorists who grabbed Moro on March 16. But the sight of police carrying submachine guns on city streets has taken its toll on nerves.

WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board has come up with a proposal that would make airline travel cheaper because it would allow airlines to slash prices without prior government approval.

The shift proposed Friday would still require current price ceilings to remain in effect. The CAB said in proposing the rule that "present rules unnecessarily impede competition."

The rule probably could not go into effect until 1979. Under present rules airlines must file domestic rate changes and a stack of legal briefs 45 days in advance of their effective date. Under the new system, a reduction of up to 50 percent could be imposed automatically.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A

climactic vote on the second Panama Canal treaty is scheduled for next week. But the fate of a controversial amendment — and the treaty itself — still is far from certain.

Leading Democratic senators tried on Friday to find a way to say that the United States could intervene militarily in Panama to protect the canal without sounding like the United States wants to intervene in Panama's internal affairs.

The senators adjourned their meeting without reaching a suitable agreement. The Senate votes Tuesday on the second and final treaty, which spells out the terms under which the canal will be turned over to Panama at the end of this century.
